

TABLE OF CONTENTS

EDITORIAL

Letter from the Editor: Introducing The Free Clinic Research Collective i-ii
Elizabeth Christine Lee

RESEARCH

Benefits of a Student Laboratory Team in the Free Clinic Setting: Enhancing Student Education and Patient Care 1-4
Jessica L. Churchill and John T. Raduka
Health Outreach Partnership of the Eastern Virginia Medical School Students (HOPES) Clinic, Eastern Virginia Medical School, Norfolk, VA

Breaking Barriers: Providing Skin Cancer Education to the Homeless and Uninsured 5-11
Jaclyn Altshuler, Luke Wallis, Alexis Tracy, Margaret Brown, Faryal Siddiqui, Michelle Nguyen, M.D., and John Browning, M.D.
Travis Park Dermatology Clinic, University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio, San Antonio, TX

BRIEF COMMUNICATION

A New Approach to Community Outreach in Student-Run Clinics 12-14
Briana O’Leary and James Gregoire
Fleur de Vie Ruth Fertel, Tulane University School of Medicine, New Orleans, LA

Assessing the Effectiveness of Partners in Quitting, A Text Message-Based Smoking Cessation Program 15-17
Rachel Schoenbrun
GW Healing Clinic, The George Washington University School of Medicine, Washington, DC

Incorporation of Pap Smears and a Sexually Transmitted Infection Screening Program in a Student-Run Free Clinic 18-20
Katherine Rogg, Carissa Zeleski, and William Robinson, M.D.
Grace House Clinic, Tulane University School of Medicine, New Orleans, LA

Increasing Access to Specialized Dermatologic Care Through a
Volunteer-Driven Free Clinic 21-23

Kourosch Beroukhim and Scott Worswick, M.D.

Venice Family Dermatology Clinic, Los Angeles, CA

Medication Therapy Management Program Pilot 24-25

Scott Pearson and Joanne Kuznicki

MEDiC, University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health, Madison, WI

Pairing Medical Student Education and Pap Smears at the Eastern Virginia
Medical School HOPES Free Clinic 26-28

John Raduka, Jessica Churchill, Evan Dombrosky,

Caroline Liu, and Heather Whetzel

Health Outreach Partnership of the Eastern Virginia Medical School Students (HOPES) Clinic, Eastern Virginia Medical School, Norfolk, VA

REFLECTION

The Patient-Centered Curriculum 29-30

John Cornelius Penner

HOYA Clinic, Georgetown University School of Medicine, Washington, DC